

KIM LANE

Director of Communications

Kim Lane became the director of communications for Claremont University Consortium (CUC) in May 2015. In this position, she oversees the communication, design and web development units.

Prior to coming to CUC, Ms. Lane worked for nearly two decades for the University of California, including at the Riverside and Irvine campuses and the UC Office of the President. Her most recent assignment was as the communications lead for the UCPath Center, the University of California's high-profile project to implement a single payroll, benefits, human resources and academic personnel solution for all UC employees.

At UC Riverside she was in charge of the CASE award-winning campus magazine, and the staff and faculty newsletter. She also worked for more than a decade at The Press-Enterprise newspaper in Riverside County.

She brings extensive experience in communications and marketing, working with the media; managing, developing and designing print, electronic and social media content; overseeing branding campaigns; and handling change management issues.

She has a B.A. degree in business administration (with an emphasis on labor relations) from California State University, San Bernardino.
